

Second annual 'Jump for a Just World' sees top riders support worthy cause

Wellington, Florida – The second annual 'Jump for a Just World' Training Show and Fundraiser held January 21 and 22, 2005, in Wellington, FL, again met with overwhelming success. The event benefits JustWorld International, a not-for-profit, humanitarian organization founded to prepare and empower students to become visionary leaders and work for social justice by assisting orphans and underprivileged children.

A Training Show, expanded to two days in order to accommodate the large number of entries, saw the biggest names in the sport donating their entry fees to JustWorld International in exchange for the opportunity to jump on the private grass grand prix field at Belle Herbe Farm. FEI course designer Hector Loyola of Puerto Rico treated riders to the perfect warm-up for the Winter Equestrian Festival, opening on January 26. Olympians Lauren Hough, Beezie Madden and McLain Ward all supported the Training Show, as did JustWorld rider representatives Kevin Babington of Ireland, Angela Covert of Canada, Herve Godignon of France, Eric Lamaze of Canada, Titi Mills of Honduras, Ray Texel of the United States, and several young rider and junior rider representatives.

Following the two day Training Show, it was time to celebrate with a dinner and live auction, again hosted by Belle Herbe Farm in Grand Prix Village. Almost 300 guests enjoyed the dinner catered by Ken Rose Catering and then laughed at the antics of The Flying Frenchman, a trio of athletic brothers from France who entertained the crowd by jumping grand prix fences on foot!

The live auction was a huge success, with training sessions offered by French Olympian Herve Godignon and a beautiful life-size bronze horse sculpture attracting the highest bids. Other items offered on the auction block included an original painting by a Cambodian orphan artist, handmade wooden trunks and a coffee table from Honduras, goods from Idlewood Stables, golf lessons and beautiful jewelry.

Between entry fees for the training show, dinner tickets and live auction proceeds, approximately $100,000 was raised in support of JustWorld International.

"The great success of the second annual JustWorld International fundraiser bears witness to the interest and remarkable enthusiasm of not only the corporate world, but also the eagerness of the equestrian community to support a worthy cause," noted JustWorld International Executive Director Jessica Newman.
